MOVE TO END SPEED MADNESS

The Massachusetts Highway Commission today began an investigation of the case of Dr. Edward A. Knowles of Revere, who was allowed to go free on probation by Judge William F. Merritt of the Roxbury District Court after the physician had confessed to his guilt in operating his automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Today Dr. Knowles still has the right to drive his automobile at will despite the fact that the Highway Commission's records show he is a second offender against the automobile laws of the State.

Another important development today in the campaign against law-breaking motorists in Massachusetts was the inquiry started by District Attorney Barker of Plymouth County into the mad automobile race at Cohasset which cost the life of Mrs. Beulah Rice Smith of Lexington. District Attorney Barker declared an inquest will be held and added that prosecution will follow if his investigation bears out the reports that the fatality was directly due to reckless driving.

"When I have learned the facts I will have something very interesting to say," the District Attorney declared.

A score or more of witnesses are expected to tell of seeing the cars racing at breakneck speed just before the accident in which Mrs. Smith was fatally hurt.

It came out today that through flaws and loopholes in the present automobile laws reckless motorists may roam about the public roads and street at will after having been found guilty of serious charges in the courts. At present the Highway Commission has no official means of learning of the arraignment and conviction of reckless drivers of automobiles, but has to depend on newspaper reports for what information it gets of convictions in the courts.

This was pointed out by sane motorists as another proof of the need of drastic laws to wipe out the annual death and injured lists in automobile accidents in Massachusetts.

In view of the widespread demand on the part of sane motorists and the public in general that reckless auto drivers be given penalties that will serve to impress upon them the grave problem of insuring safety for all on Massachusetts highways, Judge Merritt was asked by the AMERICAN about the case of Dr. Knowles of No. 270 Broadway, Revere, who was placed on probation after pleading guilty to operating his machine while intoxicated and smashing the windows of a Roxbury liquor store.

This was Dr. Knowles' second appearance in the courts for violating automobile laws. Records at the Highway Commission show that Dr. Edward A. Knowles of No. 270 Broadway, Revere, was fined $10 in the Cambridge District Court December 17, 1912, for not displaying his rear light. Dr. Knowles paid the fine.

Judge Merritt said he took into consideration the profession of the offender; that he felt a doctor was entitled to lenient and another chance; that facts warranted probation and that he was largely influenced by the recommendation of Probation Officer Keen.

HAD HUSBAND FINED, NOW ASKS FOR CHILDREN

Mrs. Florence B. Taylor of Brookline, wife of Dr. J. B. Taylor, Jr., a prominent nerve specialist who was recently convicted and fined $25 in the Dedham Superior Court for an attack upon his wife, has petitioned the Probate Court of Brookline for the custody of her two children, Philip, aged five, and Florence, four. Mrs. Taylor claims that for the future happiness and welfare of the children they should be placed under her care.

STEWARD TAKEN AS SMUGGLER

Luigi Acchim, second steward of the liner Cretic, has been arrested, charged with smuggling jewelry into Boston, and as a result of his arrest the customs officials believe they have unearthed the band of smugglers who have brought thousands of dollars' worth of goods into this port from Italy during the past five years.

The customs officials today searched the North End for the headquarters of the smugglers.

Acchim was arrested last night by Francis Fallen, a custom guard. Fallen noticed something bulging out Acchim's coat and putting his hand upon it discovered that it was a case. Fallen compelled Acchim to open his coat and found the case hid in an inside pocket of the latter's vest.

The case contained $500 worth of Florentine mosaics, consisting of stick pins, breast pins, pendants, necklaces, etc. Acchim was taken before Captain Charles Puckett of the Customs Guard and questioned. Today Acchim appeared before Surveyor of the Port Graves at the Custom House. He told Surveyor Graves that he was given the jewelry in Genoa to give to a man named Giuseppi, whose last name he did not know. Acchim said he knew the house to which Giuseppi lived in the North End. He said it was on North street.

After hearing Acchim's story Surveyor Graves sent Guards Dowd and Grant to the North End with him to find Giuseppi and incidentally locate the alleged gang said to be working with him in disposing of smuggled jewelry.

The custom officials are convinced that the arrest of Acchim will lead to the arrests of others and clear up the smuggling that has been going on for the past five years.

The government officials during that time have made five seizures of Italian jewelry. Some of the latter is what is known as coral jewelry and is worth $5,000. They were never able to get a line on the parties working the Boston end.

Shot by Revere Father-in-Law as Bride Looks on

Before the eyes of his bride of two weeks, Sebastiano Comisse, twenty four, was shot by his father-in-law, Michele Orlandella, today, because the son-in-law had refused to lend Orlandella money to pay for a trip to Italy. Believing Comisse dead, Orlandella fired a bullet into his own brain.

The shooting took place in the kitchen of the Orlandella home at No. 9 Mountain avenue, Revere. Mrs. Orlandella, mother of Comisse's bride was also in the room. At the Revere police station it was found that Comisse was only slightly wounded in the neck. Orlandella was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where his name was placed on the dangerous list.

PLAN SHOP SATURDAY HOLIDAY

This store will be closed from Friday until Monday, during July and August.

They haven't got far enough with the proposition, in the big department stores of Boston, to make an announcement, but they are thinking seriously of it, and, in one or two of the stores the question has been referred to the employes, who are being polled about it.

If this is done it will take the place of the Saturday half holiday, which in the past has run through June, July and August.

And more, besides.

In more than one Boston store the management is considering a new plan as to the lunch hour.

This plan involves the closing of Boston department stores daily, the year around, from 12 to 1 o'clock.

Some of the shop folks call the noon idea a "continental" plan. It is the custom in many places abroad.

There is something like it in the smaller cities of America, where clerks and others get an hour at noon and are near enough to home to run out and back for something hot at the family table.

In every department store these plans are being discussed, together with a suggestion that during the Summer the business of all New England shall be run on Central time instead of on "Eastern" time.

Running on "Central" time means that stores and offices would close during July and August at 4 o'clock. They will really close the doors at 5, by the office clock, but the office clock will be running on "Central" time.

The change in time from Eastern to Central time is not a department store proposition. There are men in the stores who would favor the trial of such an arrangement, but it cannot be brought about unless New England business men take it up.

It would have to be accepted, that is to say, by merchant and professional men of every sort. The early closing would be made up for by an earlier coming to work. The idea is to keep time by the sun.

In those department stores where it is decided to keep closed on Saturdays during July and August the clerks will vote to give up the Saturday half-holiday in June. The recent plan has been to close on Saturday noon in June, July and August.

The proposition now before the houses is to work the "regular" day on the Saturdays of June, but not to open at all on Saturdays in July and August.

Naturally the employes in the store during their leisure time—are finding little else to talk about.

SEARCH THE WOODS OF HINGHAM FOR MISSING INVALID

Scores of citizens and members of the fire department of Hingham today searched the woods in the vicinity of South Hingham for George Puffer, a prominent resident who has been missing from his home on Main street since early today.

Mr. Puffer, who is sixty years old, had been ill for some time. A fire alarm was sounded calling out the department and neighbors to aid in the search.

GUARD WOMEN FROM OVERWORK

The legislative Committee on Social Welfare today reported a bill to provide that women and children employed in more than one place shall not be permitted to work more than fifty-four hours a week in the aggregate.

REFERENDUM BILL IS UP TOMORROW

The initiative and referendum amendment to the State constitution has been assigned for debate in the House of Representatives for tomorrow.

HERE is the young woman, Gladys R. Hamilton, whose charges of "juggled" books in the Revere assessors' office have led to an investigation by the District Attorney.

GIRL HINTS AT REVERE FORGERY

Judge Brown in the Superior Criminal Court today ordered the seizure of the assessors' books of the town of Revere.

The order was issued following the refusal today of Town Assessors Segee and Bates to deliver the books to Assistant District Attorney Lavelle, who went to Revere Town Hall and formally demanded them.

"You are interfering with the administration of justice," said Mr. Lavelle to the assessors.

"We are acting upon the advice of Samuel R. Cutler, town counsel, who is our personal counsel also," said Segee.

"Then you are all interfering with justice," said Mr. Lavelle.

Officer Will Serve Order.

The assistant district attorney returned to Boston and had the facts before Judge Brown, who issued an order that the books must be delivered over to a representative from the district attorney's office.

A Boston police inspector will take the order and go to Revere tomorrow morning to seize the books. If Segee and Bates refuse to give them to him they can be brought before the court for contempt, and if Judge Brown desires, he can send them to jail.

District Attorney Pelletier will call a special question session of the Grand Jury to come in Friday morning to consider the charges that the books of the Revere assessors have been tampered with and that false entries have been made.

Demand is Refused.

The investigation comes as a result of trouble between Segee and Bates, assessors, and Arthur C. Pendergast, tax collector of the town.

Lavelle was accompanied to Revere Town Hall today by Police Inspector Silas Wallis. Lavelle asked Miss Eliza H. MacAdams, clerk of the assessors, to hand over the books. She refused.

"These books are in the safe and must be safe is locked," said Miss MacAdams.

"Will you open the safe?" asked Mr. Lavelle.

"No," replied Miss MacAdams.

Lavelle and Wallis then left the office. They returned shortly and encountered

PROTEST CUT OF FITCHBURG B. & M. TRAINS

A protest was filed today with the Railroad Commission, against the recent reduction of passenger service on the Fitchburg Division of the Boston & Maine Railroad. The protest was signed and presented by a delegation of legislators from Western Massachusetts, headed by Representative Morton Burdick of Adams.

In their protest the delegation stated that the new schedule, in effect last Monday, carries five fewer trains than formerly; that this leaves the service in deplorable condition, as it causes great inconvenience to residents from the western part of the State, who cannot go to and from the State House as readily as before; also, that the removal of the train which formerly left North Adams at 6.20 a. m. results in making it impossible for High School children to reach the city in time for the morning session.

Among the signers of the protest beside Mr. Burdick are Representatives Boland and Davies of North Adams, and Ennis of Williamstown.

Physician Gives Recipe for Gray Hair

A Well Known Physician and Author Gives Simple Home Recipe That Will Darken Gray Hair.

Dr. Stanton Burroughs, the well known physician and author, recently made the following statement: "Gray hair can be easily darkened by the following simple recipe, which you can mix at home. To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. bay rum and ¼ oz. glycerine. Apply it to the hair every other day until the desired shade is obtained. It not only is an excellent hair darkener, but at the same time removes dandruff and other ills of the scalp. I use it myself, and have no hesitance in recommending it to my patients. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost."—Advertisement.

Loser in Duel for Love Found Lying Slashed in Alley

Fighting a duel for love of a woman is given as the reason for the condition of Joseph Cottelano, who is held at the Hanover street station, pending an investigation.

Cottelano was found by Patrolman William F. McDonald at 3 a. m. today in an alley behind No. 388 Hanover street. He was bleeding from several cuts in the neck and right hand. He refuses to say how he was injured.

It was learned that Cottelano and a fellow countryman loved the same girl when all three lived in Calabria, Italy; that the girl and her parents came to this country and were shortly afterward followed by the two youths; that Cottelano settled in Bedham, that he and his former rival recently met, and that the old hatred blazed out again, each holding the other to blame because the girl in the case had never made a choice.

House Votes for Charlestown Tube to Replace the "L"

The House today by a voice vote substituted for an adverse committee report a bill providing for the removal of the elevated structure in Charlestown between the North Station and Sullivan square and the substitution of a subway.

The bill was advocated by the Charlestown Improvement Association. The fight for it was led by Representatives Carr and Tague of the Bunker Hill district.

Real estate owners and the public generally have long opposed the elevated structure as a setback to Charlestown's development.

TUBE COMPANY LOST BIG BUSINESS, SAYS STEEL TRUST HEAD

NEW YORK, May 14.—Questions relating to the operation of the National Tube Company and the American Steel and Tinplate Company were asked at yesterday's session of the investigation of the United States Steel Corporation when he took the stand today at the hearing in the corporation's defiance of the government's suit to dissolve the corporation on the charge that it is a trust.

Farrell testified that when the National Tube Company was taken over by the Steel Corporation it controlled 56 per cent. of the pipe and tubular steel business in this country, but now it handles only about 23 per cent. He said sharp competition by outside companies and foreign companies had made big inroads into the company's business.

GIRL CHARGES JUGGLING OF REVERE BOOKS

Walter White, chairman of the Revere Board of Selectmen.

"Can we have those books, Mr. White?" inquired Mr. Lavelle.

"Have you the books in the office, Miss MacAdams?" asked Mr. White.

"Yes," replied Miss MacAdams, "they are in the safe."

"Will you unlock the safe for these gentlemen?" asked White.

"No," replied Miss MacAdams.

Lavelle and White then left the office and were closeted with Samuel Segee and Charles H. Bates, secretary of the Board of Assessors.

The four then came back to the assessors' office.

"Can we see those books?" said Mr. Lavelle.

"It is against the law, but they are open to townsmen at any time, as they are public records of the Town of Revere," replied Segee.

Mr. Lavelle said:

"There is evidence of criminal acts here. You gentlemen are hindering the wheels of justice by your actions."

Then Watte and Lavelle left the office. Miss Gladys R. Hamilton, of long experience in the collector's office, has made the startling declaration that there has been mysterious juggling and tampering with the books of the town, and it was her story that first led to the investigation by the District Attorney.

In her statement, Miss Hamilton declares that taxes were abated for people in high positions, and that for years a mysterious shifting of titles in land has been going on in the assessors' office. She said:

I haven't been told not to discuss these things, and yet I may be called upon, and so do not want to say too much. I suppose I was in great measure responsible for the finding of the supposed alterations in the books, and of course I called them to the attention of Collector Pendergast.

For years back there were mysterious shiftings of land, and much of it eventually was turned over to Mr. Segee. There were troubles about the issuance of the town warrants, and the same has occurred this year.

I believe that the interlining of the books was done between the time the late collector, Fenno, left office and Mr. Pendergast went in. I should think some time within two months. This I discovered on Monday, May 5, and do not mistake not that I know the handwriting.

There was ever so much trouble threatening for a long time over the abatement of taxes. It will be found that taxes were abated for people in high land I might say, unexpected places. No, I shall not mention names. Also relatives of certain officials were benefited in this way.

"Property Shifting."

The time would come, too, when taxes were practically uncollectable and these properties would find their way into the hands of favored persons who thereafter paid the taxes and entered upon legal ownership. I always felt that Mr. Bates was a good man, only he let others have their own way too much, and it was bad for the office. I noted with interest that Mr. Colcord was usually in opposition to the balance of the board.

The discrepancies in the accounts as I remember totaled $900 and some odd cents.

Business Notice.

"GENERAL" FLORA DRUMMOND, militant leader, who is ill in London prison from hunger strike.

MILITANTS TRY TO WRECK LONDON TRAIN

LONDON, May 14.—Train wrecking is the latest form of violence attempted by the militant suffragettes. An attempt was made today by women to blow up a train on the London and Southwestern Railway, but the plot failed, owing to the vigilance of the guards.

Three bombs, consisting of canisters filled with various kinds of powerful explosives, were found in a crowded carriage of a passenger train. If they had not been found and an explosion had occurred scores of lives would have been lost.

The bombs were found shortly after the train left Kingston on the Thames and the police argue that the woman left the car there after concealing the bombs.

Arsonettes are still busy in South England. Militant women burned The Highlands, a mansion at Sandgate, causing damage estimated at $3,000. Sandgate is two miles from Folkstone, overlooking English Channel.

Puncturing of motor car tires is another freak of the militants. Frequented highways are being strewn with pieces of leather filled with small, sharp nails. "Votes for Women" is stamped upon the leather.

THREE CAMBRIDGE BURGLARS MISS $28 IN BOX IN BAKERY

Three burglars, who "jimmied" their way into the bakery of Miss Leah Fowler at 366A Broadway, Cambridge, had their trouble and risk for nothing. Thanks to a new clerk, the day's receipts had been concealed in a box on a shelf, instead of being deposited in the cash register.

The burglars were discovered at work at 11:15 last night by Mrs. J. Lawrence Lee, who lives over the bakery; she heard a window raised, and awakened her husband. He went below, with his revolver; outside of the bakery were two youths, one of whom wore a black and white cap. When Lee appeared they fled. The burglar who was inside crawled out and was ordered to halt, but ran. Lee fired three times and thinks that he struck the man, as the fellow dropped the flashlight that he had in his hand.

CARPENTERS SEEK TO ARBITRATE

FALL RIVER, May 14.—A delegation of the Master Carpenters' Association conferred today with Mayor Kay for the purpose of obtaining his friendly offices in asking the State Board of Arbitration to assist in adjusting the differences between the association and the Carpenters' Union. The carpenters here have been ordered to strike next Monday, unless given an increase in wages.

Property Valued at $400,000 Left by Olea Bull Vaughan

Mrs. Olea Bull Vaughan, only child of the famous Norwegian violinist, Ole Bull, and who died six hours after she won the celebrated Bull will contest two years ago, left an estate worth $400,000, according to the appraisal filed in the New York courts. The bulk of this estate came from the estate of Mrs. Vaughan's mother, who had willed most of her $50,000 fortune to Hindoo swamis.

Under her will, Mrs. Vaughan leaves $30,000 each to Amelia, William C. and Dorothy Singleigh. To her five-year-old daughter, Sylvea Bull Vaughan, she leaves a cash legacy of $25,000 and the residuary estate, valued at $200,000, to be held in trust until the daughter is twenty-one years old. Mrs. Vaughan leaves her father's estate of Lysson in Norway as a shrine to the admirers of the great violinist.

DISARMING, AID TO WAR, SAYS LYMAN ABBOTT

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 14.—Pleading one moment for an adequate army and navy to protect our coasts and at another moment for international arbitration and peace, Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, quoted literally from the Bible here today in his speech before the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration to show that until international justice is obtained international peace will be impossible.

Dr. Abbott, who was recently dropped from the American Peace Society because of his utterances in favor of a larger navy, asserted that there are times when war is necessary. He also declared that disarmament promotes war, not peace, unless there is a world-wide disarmament. Disarmament means weakness, he said, and weakness invites attack.

He asserted that there would probably never have been a War of 1812 had Great Britain believed that the United States had a navy adequate to protect her citizens upon the seas. The first duty of a government, he said, is to protect its people in the enjoyment of life, and if it fails to afford such protection it has no right to exist.

ASKS $78,000 ALIMONY FROM BANKER HEYE

Did you ever hear of a woman suing for $78,000 alimony?

Nothing like it was ever heard of in the Massachusetts courts.

It's the biggest alimony a woman ever asked for, with one exception.

Mrs. Blanche A. Williams Heye of New York thinks she should be paid $78,000 a year by her husband. This means she thinks her time worth $213.70 a day, $8.90 an hour or 15 cents every time the second hand ticks sixty.

What could a woman do to spend $78,000 a year? That's more than President Wilson gets as a salary. Think of the elaborate White House receptions he arranges for out of that.

But Mrs. Heye, who married George Gustave Heye, a banker in Wellesley in 1904, is now lying in the Sloane Maternity Hospital in New York directing her suit while recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Heye says there's another woman in the case. She charges a certain Miss Vincent, said to be an actress, with being the woman. Miss Vincent, she says, has been maintained in apartments by her husband. According to Mrs. Heye, Miss Vincent is "a person of no prominence."

"I am suing for divorce," said Mrs. Heye, "simply because I had discovered that my husband was too fond of other women."

Mrs. Heye's two children, Mildred, eight, and Lawrence, four, are living with their mother. Mr. Heye, who is said to be worth more than $2,000,000, is a member of the firm of Battles & Co., bankers.

His father Gustave Heye, who amassed a fortune in Standard Oil, most of which went to his son. Before her marriage Mrs. Heye was Miss Blanche A. Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Heard Williams of New York.

The Presbyterians have a membership of more than 2,500,000 in the United States.

Hurd of the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

MILLIONAIRE YACHT RECLUSE IS DYING

"BEWARE OF SLIM MEN, they're cranky," says this woman, Mrs. Blanche Mae Chandler of Revere.

PHILOSOPHY OF LOVE AS TOLD BY MRS. CHANDLER

Here is the philosophy of love as outlined by Mrs. Blanche Mae Chandler of Revere, who is being sued for divorce:

Never marry until you are certain the man you intend choosing has perfect poise in his morals and physical makeup.

Stout women should never marry men who are slim, because stout men are good-natured and slim men are cranky.

A woman who intends to marry the man of her choice ought to find out his habits before the knot is tied. This also applies to the men.

Couples engaging in marriage should understand each other, and be fortified with a knowledge of the classics, politics, etc., so that each may hold intelligent discussions on topics of the day.

WOMEN CANVASS NAVY YARD FOR MAINE FUND

Following a month-long canvass for the Maine Memorial fund among the 4,000 enlisted men aboard the fleet and in the barracks at the Charlestown Navy Yard, the Women's Auxiliary, Department Massachusetts, United Spanish War Veterans, today took up plans to extend their canvass to all down-the-harbor forts, and the different league ball games in the immediate future.

The six women who visited the navy yard as officials of the State organization were: Mrs. Mabel Pierce, president; Mrs. M. G. Hallie, secretary; Mrs. E. Maud Dougan, treasurer; Mrs. E. L. Higgins, historian; Mrs. B. E. Jenkins and Mrs. Catherine Winnett.

Wearing yellow sashes—the regalia of their organization—on which were lettered the words, "Remember the Maine," and carrying little wooden boxes to receive the contributions, the women were given a most cordial reception.

The original cost of the Maine Memorial monument in New York was $143,000, which was raised by popular subscription. An additional $40,000 is now needed to pay for the approaches ordered by the Municipal Art Commission of New York. William Randolph Hearst has promised to give a dollar to the fund for every other dollar secured elsewhere.

In addition to the amounts received by the AMERICAN direct, and previously credited, and the sums accounted for by the officers of Department Massachusetts, United Spanish War Veterans, Morton E. Jenkins, Department Adjutant, today reports the following donations to the fund:

Leslie I. Hunting Camp No. 12, of Cambridge	$20
Col. F. B. Rogan Camp, No. 14, Charlestown	10
M. J. O'Connor Camp, South Boston	10

WHERE IS NEW ENGLAND'S MOST PERFECT BABY?

LEO P. SULLIVAN'S CLAIMS TO BEING A PERFECT BABY.

Height—Thirty-five inches.
Weight—Thirty-eight pounds.
Chest—Twenty-four inches.
Abdomen—Twenty-four inches.
Head circumference—Twenty-one and one-half inches.

The great New England baby contest is on.

Who has the perfect baby—not the prettiest or the cutest or the cunningest—but the most perfect baby physically.

From New York has come the announcement that little Abie Edelowitz in ideal physical proportions outrivals all babies.

When the news reached Boston and was published broadcast all over New England in the Boston AMERICAN, with a photograph and the measurements of the New York baby wonder, there was a considerable of a to-do. Mothers everywhere decided that the time had come to vindicate the New England baby, and now they are writing to the "Perfect Baby" editor of the AMERICAN with proofs, that the perfect baby is right here in New England.

Mrs. Sullivan believes that if her baby were entered in the race he would easily score the necessary thousand points.

Leo is really a wonderful specimen of a baby.

He is exactly two years, one month and twenty-eight days old today. He has never been sick.

He drinks one quart of milk per day.

Eats one wheat biscuit with cream and sugar.

One soft boiled egg.

Two slices of buttered toast.

An apple.

Two ounces of meat (three times a week).

Potatoes—sometimes other vegetables in small amounts.

You never heard a youngster hardly over two laugh as little Leo can laugh. He is full of fun—and sometimes of mischief.

Every little while the family physician calls to take a look at his progress, and Leo never fails to make good at the stated intervals.

His mother, and father, John Edward Sullivan, regard their baby as the blue ribbon winner among babies, and—who can tell—Leo may be THE perfect New England baby. However, there are to be more competitors, and time will tell whether Leo can hold the lead as regards physical proportions and measurements.

Watch the AMERICAN from day to day, mothers, for these perfect babies.

Remember, the baby must be strong and have what doctors term ideal proportions in head, neck, shoulders, chest, hips, abdomen, legs and arms. Hair and eyes and teeth and good forehead and ears all go to determine the perfections of the perfect baby.

Continue Fight in Senate for Public Hearings on Tariff

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The fight on the Penrose motion to instruct the finance committee to hold public hearings on the Underwood tariff bill was resumed today.

It was thought that there was but slight chance of pushing through the motion, though it was conceded that the Lafollette amendment, providing sixteen questions to be answered under oath by those who testified, had materially strengthened the position of the Republicans by offering a way in which to curtail the testimony of the witnesses.

The chief point made against the Penrose motion by the Democratic majority has been the length of time public hearings would take.

WIFE'S SWEARING NOT DIVORCE CAUSE COURT TELLS MAN

Despite the long story told to Judge Morton in the Suffolk County Divorce Session today by William G. Ripley, a clerk, living on Bailey street, Dorchester, regarding his abusive treatment by his wife, Helen F. Ripley, he was refused a divorce.

Judge Morton said: Divorces cannot be granted on a rehearsal of family quarrels.

Ripley told Judge Morton that he had married his wife on March 27, 1910, in Dorchester, and that she became quarrelsome within a week after they were wed.

"My wife told me that I was not good enough for her and swore at me. She said that our marriage was not legal as it had been performed by a dissenting minister. It should have been performed by a clergyman from her church, she told me," he said.

JAMES MAY FACE THE CARDINALS IN FINAL GAME

The Pilgrims and Cardinals will wind up their series at the Columbus avenue grounds this afternoon. Each team has already won one game and this afternoon's battle should be a bitter affair. Stallings is anxious to win, as he has hopes of passing the New York Giants, who now head the second division.

Bill James may be selected to do the honors on the mound for the Pilgrims today. Steele or Geyer will probably pitch for the visitors.

OPPOSE HARRIS AS CENSUS DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Satisfied that Republican opposition to the confirmation of W. J. Harris of Georgia, as director of the census, will continue to manifest itself in Difference until July 1, when the resignation of E. Dana Durland, now director of the census, becomes effective, Democrats were ready today to declare a temporary truce. This fight is the first real battle on a Wilson appointee. Democrats resent the fact Harris appointment is political and that Durland should be permitted to serve out his term.

FAVOR BOARD TO STUDY PENSIONS

By an overwhelming voice vote, the House of Representatives today passed to be engrossed a resolve for the appointment of a commission to devise a just and comprehensive system of State, county and municipal pensions. This measure has been advocated by Governor Foss in his vetoes of special pension acts.

ANDREWS MENACED BY PRAIRIE FIRE

SASKATOON, Sask., May 14.—A prairie fire today threatened the town of Andrews with destruction, but was got under control after it had wiped out several buildings, including the postoffice.

WOMEN OF 3 CITIES ARM TO CATCH PROWLER

Women obliged to go out on the streets of Malden, Medford and Everett unescorted at night are likely to keep up their newly-started custom of going armed with revolvers, knives, hatpins or other weapons, according to the police today. They feel that it may be necessary for them to call upon policemen in order to catch a mysterious purse snatcher and prowler, who has figured in six cases in the past few days.

The suggestion has also been made that some of the members of the police force dress themselves in women's clothes, and thus invite an attack from the mysterious man, who always works under cover of darkness.

Miss Emily Erickson, fifteen, of No. 530 Broadway, Malden, and a maid servant, whose name is withheld, but who is employed by H. L. Bass of No. 21 Royal street, Medford, are the latest victims. Both have been attacked by the man within the past twenty-four hours, but their screams frightened him away.

The description given by all the women and girls attacked, several of whom the prowler has struck violent blows on the face, tally.

His usual practice is to hide behind a tree until his victim is close by. Then he jumps out, snatching at her handbag, and at the same time pushing her into the gutter. Sometimes he hits his victim with clenched fist.

STOCKBRIDGE GETS HOUSE AND $25,000 AS WEDDING GIFT

WEBSTER, May 14.—Dr. John J. Stockbridge, who about ten years ago played shortstop for the Boston and New York National League baseball teams, today received from his father, Frank Stockbridge of Dudley, a gift of a new house, together with $25,000 in stocks and bonds, when the doctor was married to Mrs. Rose D. Groh, a local widow with four young children.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. A. Dorscheid in the Sacred Heart Church. The attendants were Edgar Dauferena and Miss Beatrice Dauferena, brother and sister of the bride. The couple left immediately after the ceremony on a wedding trip to Europe.

TO SEND WIRELESS FROM MOVING TRAIN

NEW YORK, May 14.—The first wireless message from a moving train will be sent early next week when a series of experiments will be conducted by the Marconi Company on the Lackawanna Limited between this city and Buffalo. The aerial will be stretched along the entire length of the train.

JUDGE GRANT SCORES WOMAN FOR FLIPPANCY

Judge Grant admonished Mrs. Elinor Ford in severe terms today, as she was testifying in the suit before the Probate Court brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan of Dwight street to establish her right as the widow of P. John Ryan. This right will carry with it her claim to an estate of some $25,000, mostly in mining stock.

Mrs. Ford is a niece of the late Ryan. While she was on the stand today Judge Grant reprimanded her for her style of answering. The court finally warned her to confine herself strictly to the questions she was asked. Many times she insisted on referring to the petitioner as "Miss Morse."

By Attorney Kelley—Did you ever know of Peter J. Ryan who lived in New Bedford?

Witness—Yes; when the petitioner first told me she ought to have the widow's rights in the estate and that she was also fighting for her good name. I told her that as far as I could see there was nothing to the estate. I knew that my uncle had several ladies of wealth, refinement, good birth and breeding, any of whom he might have married, had he wanted.

The first time I met the petitioner was at the home of my mother in Haverhill when she came on a visit with uncle. My uncle introduced her to mother as Miss Morse.

Attorney Kelley—Didn't you ever hear your uncle was married? Witness—Never.

Judge Grant ruled out an alleged conversation in which a common law marriage in New York between Ryan and the petitioner was referred to.

Roxbury Piano Storage Salesrooms

His May Piano Sale Now On

J.P.Collins
Founder of the Roxbury Piano Storage Salesrooms. The man who has done more to keep down piano prices than any other dealer in Boston. The Largest Distributor of Pianos in America.

His Great Piano Sales

A Piano Sale here is always a sacrifice, always a bargain sale, always a mark-down sale. The very nature of business, as the public knows, is one of sacrifice. The business here is not conducted like the business of a regular Piano store down town, where they are expected to make a profit on each piano—where they get their profit DIRECTLY out of the sale of pianos. We don't let any piano loaf around on the floor of the Roxbury Storage Salesrooms—it comes in, in DUE TIME a Sacrifice and is shipped on to it. be it high grade or low grade piano grade, and it is sold to the first man or woman who wants it for the price marked on the tag—and not more or less. The selling price is made on the Roxbury Storage Salesrooms' "Expense percentage" basis, and is figured to let the accounts out clean and clear, without regard to profit—so you can see easily by this statement how these sales must necessarily be sacrifices. Somewhere less is your gain.

The gilded piano stores, with their costly appointments, their high-salaried sales agents, their sellers' commissions, etc., are no place for the economical piano buyer to go. Take the trouble to look around a little, go up where the rents are not so high and buy your piano right.

'LOUISIANA LOU' AT MAJESTIC PROVES A HIT

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

Fortunately the drama of late Spring and early Summer is not to be taken seriously—otherwise you wouldn't enjoy it.

Now, there is "Louisiana Lou," a musical play for tired business men, who are not too tired to gaze upon silk lingerie when properly presented in lilting songs and lively dances. It is entertainment for just this kind of weather, and especially for those good folk who like froth on their beer.

But you must take it at its face value. A full season in Chicago shows how well the playgoers of that city liked the piece, and now, at the Majestic Theatre, you are invited right up to the footlights to enjoy yourself in a measure of fun, nonsense and melody that may stay around all Summer if the going is good.

The performance of "Louisiana Lou" last evening brought a number of new faces to the local stage, as well as a few that were familiar. Taken at its own word, "Louisiana Lou" is musical comedy for tastes that are popular and not too particular. On that valuation it made good, for the music by Ben M. Jerome was agreeable to the ear and the comedy was better than you usually discover in offerings of the same kind. There was no doubt last evening about the comedy half of the performance. It went straight over the footlights and found a friendly resting place.

Attractive Entertainment.

Harry First, who directed most of the humor as a sentimentally inclined Hebrew, appeared well acquainted with his role. His was distinctly funny, except at those moments when he found himself enmeshed in pathetic situations. Then he was still funnier. It may be said of Mr. First, however, that while his periods of pathos were treacherous and uncertain, he managed to extricate himself skilfully and turn the tears that were expected into laughs that were genuine.

It was Miss Eleanor Henry who gave "Louisiana Lou" its best boost as an attractive entertainment. She apparently knew what was expected of a prima donna, and she wasn't at all backward about making her audience enjoy her presence on the stage. She handed her musical numbers like a veteran—which, of course, she wasn't, as you could see by the youthful twinkle in her eye. Miss Henry either enjoyed her own act or she was a smart actress—probably both. At any rate, the young woman sent you home with pleasant memories of her work.

Burrell Barbarette was a young man with a pleasant personality and an ambition to labor earnestly. He may be safely taken as a juvenile comedian worth seeing at any time. Neil McNeil, Anne McNabb and Kathryn Miley are more or less conspicuous during the proceedings. Miss Miley's sense of comedy did not injure her performance.

One of the surprises of the evening was the eccentric dancing of Walter Wills, an unknown young man who did more with his feet and legs than has been accomplished on the Boston stage for some time. He just missed being a sensation.

The musical numbers were prettily staged, the girls of the chorus were fair to look upon, and the performance appeared to please its big audience. What more could be expected of any Summer show?

JOHNSON WEEPS AT VERDICT; MAY GET 35 YEARS

CHICAGO, May 14.—Following the conviction of Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion prize-fighter of the world, on seven counts for violating the Mann White Slave Law, for which the negro faces imprisonment for 35 years and a fine of $70,000, if the judge so directs, the motions for a new trial filed by his counsel will be heard on May 19.

Johnson is released, under bonds of $30,000, a dazed and broken man. Tears rolled down his face as he stepped from the courtroom after the verdict and he was forced to lean on friends for support.

PART I.

MARY dismissed Garson presently, and betook herself to her bedroom for a nap. The day had been a trying one, and, though her superb health could endure much, she felt that both prudence and comfort required that she should recruit her energies while there was opportunity. She was not in the least surprised that Dick had not yet returned, though he had mentioned half an hour. At the best, there were many things that might detain him, his father's absence from the office, difficulties in making arrangements for his projected honeymoon trip abroad—which would never occur—or the like. At the worst, there was a chance of finding his father promptly, and of that father as promptly taking steps to prevent the son from ever again seeing the woman who had so indiscreetly married him. Yet somehow, Mary could not believe that her husband would yield to such paternal coercion. Rather, she was sure that he would prove loyal to her whom he loved, through every trouble. At the thought a certain wistfulness pervaded her, and a poignant regret that this particular man should have been the one chosen of fate to be entangled within her mesh of revenge. There throbbed in her a heart-tormenting realization that there were in life possibilities infinitely more splendid than the joy of vengeance. She would not confess the truth even to her inmost soul, but the truth was there, and set her a-trembling with vague fears. Nevertheless, because she was in perfect health, and was much fatigued, her introspection did not avail to keep her awake, and within three minutes from the time she lay down she was blissfully unconscious of all things, both ore evil and the good, revenge and love.

She had slept, perhaps, a half-hour, when Fanuie awakened her.

"It's a man named Burke," she explained, as her mistress lay blinking. "And there's another man with him. They said they must see you."

By this time Mary was wide-awake, for the name of Burke, the police inspector, was enough to startle her out of drowsiness.

"Bring them in. In five minutes," she directed.

She got up, slipped into a tea gown, bathed her eyes in cologne, dressed her hair a little, and went into the drawing-room, where the two men had been waiting for something more than a quarter of an hour—to the violent indignation of both.

"Oh, here you are, at last!" the big, burly man cried as she entered. The whole air of him, though he was in civilian's clothes, proclaimed the policeman.

"Yes, Inspector," Mary replied pleasantly, as she advanced into the room. She gave a glance toward the other visitor, who was of a slenderer form, with a thin, keen face, and recognized him instantly as Demarest, who had taken part against her as the lawyer for the store at the time of her trial, and who was now holding the office of District Attorney. She went to the chair at the desk, and seated herself in a leisurely fashion that increased the indignation of the fuming inspector. She did not trouble to ask her self-invited guests to sit.

"To whom do I owe the pleasure of this visit, Inspector?" she remarked coolly. It was noticeable that she said whom and not what, as if she understood perfectly that the influence of some person brought him on this errand.

"I have come to have a few quiet words with you," the Inspector declared, in a mighty voice that set the globes of the chandeliers a-quiver. Mary disregarded him, and turned to the other man.

"How do you do, Mr. Demarest?" she said, evenly. "It's four years since we met, and they've made you District Attorney since then. Allow me to congratulate you."

Demarest's keen face took on an expression of perplexity.

"Can't you guess?" Mary questioned, somberly. "Search your memory, Mr. Demarest."

"Why," he exclaimed, "you are—it can't be—yes—you are the girl, you're the Mary Turner whom I—oh, I know you now."

"Young woman," Burke said, peremptorily, "the Twentieth Century Limited leaves Grand Central Station at 4 o'clock. It arrives in Chicago at 8:55 tomorrow morning." He pulled a massive gold watch from his waistcoat pocket, glanced at it, thrust it back, and concluded ponderously: "You will just about have time to catch that train."

Mary regarded the stockily built officer with a half-amused contempt, which she at no pains to conceal.

"Working for the New York Central now?" she asked blandly.

"You'd better be packing your trunk," the Inspector rumbled.

"But why?" Mary inquired, with a tantalizing assumption of innocence. "I'm not going away."

"On the Twentieth Century Limited, this afternoon," the Inspector declared, in a voice of growing wrath.

"Oh, dear, no!" Mary's assertion was made very quietly, but with an underlying firmness that irritated the official beyond endurance.

"I'm giving you your orders. You will either go to Chicago or you will go up the river."

Mary answered in a voice charged with cynicism.

"If you can convict me. Pray, notice that little word 'if.'"

The District Attorney interposed very suavely.

"I did once, remember."

"But you can't do it again," Mary declared with an assurance that excited the astonishment of the police official.

"How do you know he can't?" he blustered.

Mary laughed in a cadence of genial merriment.

"Because," she replied gaily, "if he could, he would have had me in prison some time ago."

Burke winced, but he made shift to conceal his realization of the truth she had stated to him.

"Huh!" he exclaimed gruffly. "I've seen them go up pretty easy."

Mary met the assertion with a serenity that was baffling.

"The poor ones," she vouchsafed; "not those that have money. I have money, plenty of money—now."

"Money you stole!" the Inspector returned, brutally.

"Oh, dear, no!" Mary cried, with a fine show of virtuous indignation.

Burke sneered scornfully.

"Well," he roared, "you'll never pull another one on me. You can gamble on that!"

Mary permitted herself to laugh mockingly in the face of the badgered official.

"Thank you for telling me," she said, graciously. "And let me say, incidentally, that Miss Lraeh at the peanut moment is painlessly extracting one thousand dollars from General Hastings in a perfectly legal manner, Inspector Burke."

"Well, anyhow," Burke shouted, "you may stay inside the law, but you've got to get outside the city." He tried to employ an elephantine bantering tone. "On the level, now, do you think you could get away with that young Glister scheme you've been planning?"

Mary appeared puzzled.

"What young Glister schemes?" she asked, her brows drawn in bewilderment.

"Oh, I'm wise—I'm wise!" the Inspector cried roughly. "The answer is, once for all, leave town this afternoon, or you'll be in the Tombs in the morning."

"It can't be done, Inspector," she said, sedately.

The declaration, simple as it was, aroused the official to new indignation.

"Who says it can't?" he vociferated, overflowing with anger at this flouting of the authority he represented.

Mary opened a drawer of the desk and took out the document obtained that morning from Harris, and held it forth.

"This," she replied, succinctly.

"What's this?" Burke stormed. But he took the paper.

"It's a temporary restraining order from the Supreme Court, instructing you to let me alone until you have legal proof that I have broken the law. Do you get that, Mr. Inspector Burke?"

Burke was fairly gaping over this outrage against his authority.

"Can you beat that?" he rumbled with a raucously sonorous vehemence. He regarded Mary with a stare of almost reverential wonder. "A crook appealing to the law!"

The District Attorney, however, judged it advisable to use more persuasive methods.

"Miss Turner," he said, with an appearance of sincerity, "I'm going to appeal to your sense of fair play."

"That was killed," Mary said, "killed four years ago."

But Demarest persisted. Influence had been brought to bear on him. It was for her own sake now that he urged her.

"Let young Glister alone."

Mary laughed again. But there was no hint of joyousness in the musical tone. Her answer was frank—brutally frank. She had nothing to conceal.

"His father sent me away four years—three years for something I didn't do. Well, he's got to pay for it."

JUDGE BRUCE GIVES SUCCESS RULES TO WIVES

JUDGE CHARLES M. BRUCE, who tells principal causes of matrimonial shipwreck.

JUDGE BRUCE'S ADVICE FOR YOUNG WIVES.

1.—Let the married people build their own nest—without the interference of the "old birds."

2.—Too many relatives spoil the broth.

3.—Like Ruth of old, wives must go whithersoever the husband goeth and make his people her people.

4.—Don't exceed your husband's income in your expenditures.

5.—Unwillingness of the wife to co-operate with the husband is the cause of most court cases.

Judge Charles M. Bruce of the Malden District Court, whose rulings and advice in matrimonial tangles brought before him for adjustment have won wide attention, declares "too many relatives make a prolific cause of marital unhappiness." He also believes failure of the wife to live within the husband's income is also a leading factor in unhappiness.

Judge Bruce, who made several striking statements while hearing the charges of non-support brought by Gladys E. Dodge of Melrose against John E. Dodge, was asked by the AMERICAN to amplify these. He said:

Of course nothing that I can say will make a particle of difference to young married people. They will go right ahead making the same old blunders whether I talk or not. From everybody's experience we know that nothing that anybody can tell us before marriage really makes any difference.

The main characteristic of Massachusetts men is that you can tell them as far as you can see them, but you cannot tell them much! So it is with the newly-weds.

It appears that Mrs. Dodge (who has one small child) persisted in inviting her mother and her grandmother to live with her, regardless of the fact that her husband could only earn $18 a week as a rigger at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The husband stood it as long as he could and then wanted a change.

Too Many Relatives.

The wife apparently was the cause of his going in debt to support all her female relatives. When he remonstrated she told him if he didn't like it he could get out, and he did, apparently. Then she sued him for non-support.

I disposed of the case by putting the matter into the hands of the probation officer, Mr. Killion, and telling Mr. Dodge to pay his wife and child $7 a week or else return and live with her. He is paying the $7 a week, I guess. The case was continued till June 21st. At that time I remarked in court that "Too many cooks spoil the broth," which was the cause in that family.

However, no two cases are alike. And it would be hard to lay down any general rules for all married people to follow. And yet, in the majority of cases, unhappiness and court publicity come from the unwillingness or inability of the wife to live within the income of the husband.

Must Co-operate.

Too many relatives butting in all the time is another prolific cause of marital unhappiness. Now, when two birds mate up you never see the old birds come flocking around and pulling things to pieces, do you?

No, of course not; the young birds simply build their own nest alone, and that's the end of it. So with young married people; let them settle their own problems without interference from the old folks. That's the only way for them to get along and be happy together. When we are young we don't want any advice and, even if we do get it occasionally, we never go by it.

Like the story of Ruth in the Old Testament, the wife must "make his people her people, and his God her God." That is the only way to be sure of happiness in wedlock, at any rate. There cannot be two factions in the one household.

Wives must live within the income of their husbands or else they should not have married them in the first place. The couple must co-operate or else the whole experiment winds up in the divorce court.

Rev. Fr. D. J. Leonard of Cambridge, N. Y., says a young lady of his parish was cured of serious lung trouble by Father John's Medicine.

Col. Wm. C. Miles of Washington, D. C., says: "Father John's Medicine saved my life."

One of my children had bronchitis from birth. Father John's Medicine cured her and made her strong.—Mrs. M. McCabe, 534 West 49th Street, New York City.

Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription, not a patent medicine, and is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form. Thousands of mothers give it to their children to build them up at this time of the year.

MALDEN PUPILS GIVE UP DANCE FOR PRAYERS

To dance or to pray—that's the question in Malden.

It was up to the juniors in the Malden High School to decide which it should be. And the pupils decided it is to be—prayer.

The vote to pray instead of dancing came as a result of a protest made by Malden ministers against the dances the juniors of the High school give on Friday night. These are prayer meeting nights.

"You ought to be praying instead of dancing on Friday night," the clergyman told the pupils.

When the question was put up to them squarely the juniors decided that hereafter they will attend prayer meetings Friday nights instead of having dances and receptions.

The opposition to Friday night dances came largely from Rev. Dr. Charles Moss, pastor of the First Baptist Church, who, in conference with Rev. Dr. H. H. French, pastor of the Congregational Church, decided to act.

MAN WITH HEART EXPOSED 4 YEARS PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Joseph Carey, the beating of whose heart was plainly to be seen through the tissues of his lungs, following an operation by Dr. Samuel Robinson at the Massachusetts General Hospital, is dead of pneumonia at St. John, N. B., according to dispatches received here today.

Carey's case was considered unique in medicine. Carey was the first patient successfully operated on for the removal of a large portion of a lung, and Dr. Robinson was forced to remove several ribs, leaving the heart exposed.

SOUTH BOSTON GIRL MAY DIE FROM FALL

NO MORE CONSTIPATION

It's Me for Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated tablets.

They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not regard them as "medicine" at all.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless.

Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box.

Only Two Kinds Of Men Smoke Tobacco At Its Best.

The rich man, who keeps his tobacco in an expensive humidor, and the thinking man, who has discovered that plug tobacco yields him a smoke as fragrant—cool and biteless as if he had filled his pipe at the tobacco factory.

Tobacco must be fresh and moist to have the genuine tobacco flavor. The only way to preserve all this natural flavor is to press the tobacco with all its natural moisture into plug form and then keep it there by a natural leaf wrapper. That's the scientific way.

The easy way is to give smokers a tobacco that's ready to pour into a pipe. But any chopped-up tobacco will get dry, losing freshness and flavor every week.

Mrs. Blank Replies

When I saw a great bargain—just what I wanted—advertised by a big store—and I had no money—it is a fact that I have had to "go without" and afterward when I had the cash I could find no big bargain on the particular thing I wanted and I have had to pay more money for it. By waiting till I had the cash to pay for what I needed I actually lost money by losing the bargain opportunity.

I now know and so do thousands of women—

MIKE GIBBONS EASY WINNER IN BOUT WITH CHRISTIE

MIKE GIBBONS EASILY BEATS GUS CHRISTIE

By JACK CONWAY.

Mike Gibbons is some boxer. The wonderful St. Paul ring wizard came up to expectations in his bout with Gus Christie of Minneapolis at the Athe A. A. last night and completely outclassed his opponent in every round. He won the decision by a wide margin.

Christie was almost exhausted when the bell sounded at the end of the twelfth session. He had put up a game battle but was not in the same class with the St. Paul phantom who landed with his left, crossed with his right, sidestepped, ducked and feinted like a real champion.

Gibbons was not obliged to exert himself at any time during the entire bout. He was complete master of his opponent and was content to win the decision. He might have landed a knockout punch if he had exerted himself a little more. Mike, however, has another bout on for Friday evening and it would have been foolish for him to have tried to send Christie to the canvas for the count when he had him beaten so badly.

Christie Rocked Gibbons.

The Milwaukee fighter did his best work in the fifth round when he landed several stinging rights and lefts which forced Gibbons to give ground. It was only a flash, however, as Gibbons let out and riddled Gus with ripping hooks and jolts.

Gibbons did not have a single mark on him after the combat, while Christie's face looked as though it had been peppered with a shot gun. The "Texas" gave Christie a hand when he left the ring. There are few 135-pound fighters who are able to assimilate any more punishment than Christie or who are as game as he is.

Gibbons is a large edition of Abe Attell. He possesses the same wonderful speed and cleverness which enabled Abe to hold the featherweight title for so many years. He is also crafty and uses his head as well as his hands and feet.

White Scores Knockout.

Joe White of South Boston knocked out Jimmy Moriarty of Lowell in two rounds in the semi-final bout. Moriarty was no match for his youthful opponent who rushed him around the ring at will. Jimmy fought some good battles in years gone by but is about done for as a ring card.

Bob Smiley of the United States Navy lasted Jimmy Flanagan for a fast six round bout. The sailor does not know a great deal about "inside" boxing, but is a strong, rugged lad and scored repeatedly with rights and lefts to Flanagan's head and body.

"Kid" Thomas of Lawrence vanquished Oscar Lloyd of Beverly in the first six-round "go" of the evening. Lloyd put up a slashing bout and won many admirers by his clean cut work. He has only been boxing as a professional for a few months, but Gaze Thomas, who has been fighting for a number of years, plenty of trouble.

Baldwin to Meet Gallant.

Matty Baldwin of Charlestown and Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea have been matched to meet in the main bout of twelve rounds next week. Baldwin and Gallant used to be "stablemates" but separated after Baldwin had a misunderstanding with Alex McLean, who managed the two boys.

M'DONOUGH AND EAGAN MEET IN MANCHESTER GO

MANCHESTER CLUB BOUTS TONIGHT

JOE EGAN vs. YOUNG M'DONOUGH (South Boston) (Manchester) TWELVE ROUNDS.

JOE MORGAN vs. AL KETCHEL. (Manchester) (New York) TEN ROUNDS.

KID BRADLEY vs. YOUNG DEMAR (Manchester) (Manchester) TWELVE ROUNDS.

By RINGSIDE.

A rugged battle is expected when Joe Eagan and "Young" McDonough clash in a twelve-round bout in Manchester, N. H., this evening. These boys recently fought in Lawrence, and Eagan won the decision after twelve rounds of hard fighting.

McDonough's defeat by Eagan was a big surprise to his many friends, who believed that he would win easily. Eagan, however, started after the Manchester boxer at the tap of the bell in the opening stanza, and kept rushing him around the ring until the "go" came to a close.

In the second round, Eagan rocked his opponent with hard rights and lefts, and sent him to the mat several times. McDonough's great strength was the only thing which saved him from being knocked out.

When McDonough is in condition he is one of the best men of his weight in New England. He is a good punisher and very strong. His aggressive tactics have made him a big favorite with fight fans.

Eagan is a better boxer than McDonough. He is as fast as lightning on his feet and usually gives a fine account of himself. He fought a slashing twelve-round draw with Steve Kennedy in Lawrence last Thursday night.

"Young" Ketchell of New York meets "Young" Morgan of Manchester, N. H., in the semi-final bout. Ketchell has put up some good bouts in the big village, and expects to win.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

UMPIRES have their troubles with the rest of us. It is poor policy for a player to abuse an umpire, and it is likewise poor policy for a writer to attack him. They make their mistakes, of course, as ball players make errors and writers err. In the long run the mistakes of the umpires even themselves. It frequently happens that a baseball crowd will hoot the officials for a decision, but in nine cases out of ten the crowd takes its cue from the actions of the player against whom the decision is made, especially if it is a home player.

THERE is an impression that the veteran umpire, Bob Emslie, guesses at the plays that come to him for decision—that he will call one man out on suspicion and another man safe on general principles. But that is hardly fair to Emslie. He is very much closer to the plays than any spectator, and the chances are very much in favor of his decisions being correct.

There were those at the South End Grounds yesterday who believed that Maranville was out on his steal of second when he was declared safe, and there were others who believed that the decision was safe when Emslie declared him out at first in the ninth inning. Those unreal Sweeney declare that he slid safely back to the bag while those on the third-base side of the park said it looked as though Captain Bill was out.

BE this as it may, it was very exasperating to everybody when Sweeney was caught off the bag. He was the first man up in the last half of the inning. His sharp single had put him on first and the crowd was yelling for a batting rally. The Bostons needed one run to tie and two to win. Thus, who was next up, cracked out another single—and if Bill hadn't been caught off the bag a moment before he would have been on second with none out. Seymour, batting for Mann, drew a pass and chis would have filled the bases.

As this column has remarked before, the word IF is a very important one in baseball.

GETTING back to umpires for the moment, have you noticed that Hank O'Day scorns to sweep off the plate. When the rubber becomes cloudy with dust, Hank motions to the boy who "shags" the balls, and that individual produces a whisk broom and performs the operation. Hank is a very dignified umpire, proud of his calling, and his only regret is that he was hired away last season to manage the Cincinnati Reds.

JOHN TITUS made a Cy Young single in the sixth. The ball crashed against the center field bleachers and was a long enough wat to enable Sweeney (who is no Pegasus) to run from first to third, stopping several times to "rubber." Yes all John got out of it was one, solitary little base. John is a man of vast baseball intelligence, but an also ran tea wagon could allow him a very fair handicap and beat him on the base paths.

BOSTON had plenty of chances to win that last game, but fate was against them. The blow that almost killed father came at the very wind up when, with two down and two on the bases, Jay Kirke weakly struck out. Where is the power that once slumbered in Jay's bat? Any one who can answer this question is requested to send a postal card to Judson Kirke, care Walpole Street Baseball Grounds, Boston, Mass.

HARVARD TRACK TEAM FAVORITE FOR YALE MEET

By THOMAS J. HALPIN

(Quarter-Mile Champion of the United States and Canada.)

The Yale-Harvard track meet, which will take place in New Haven next Saturday afternoon, should result in a victory for Harvard, for the crimson clad athletes have a good all-round team.

Yale will not, however, bow before its most bitter rival without a great struggle and the Blue has every right to be considered in this dual meet for, barring accidents, the New Haven college has three sure winners in T. H. Cornell, the former Exeter sprinter; Brown, the half miler who cast Saturday covered the tanes in 1m. 58s., and Wagoner, the the great pole vaulter of intercollegiate fame.

Moffat Is Star Jumper.

Achilles is another pole vaulter who is capable of doing twelve feet. These two athletes should take first and second places in that event with ease.

Moffat, the Harvard high jumper, should win his event, but Yale has an athlete in the person of Douglas, who is capable of doing six feet. Tailer of Yale will furnish plenty of competition in the hammer throw, but Calder of Harvard should have this event at his mercy as at the present time he is one of the best men in college ranks in this event.

In Jackson and Cummings, Harvard appears to have the first and second place winners in the high and low hurdles. Jackson appears to be a strong favorite for the low hurdles in the intercollegiate meet.

The two mile run is another event that Harvard is sure of winning, as Boyd has shown much better form and speed than Smith, the most prominent Yale entry. The broad jump is another event that Harvard may count on provided, however, that Cables lives up to his past performances.

The shot put, the remaining field event, should result in another victory for Yale for Bruce, the Yale athlete, has shown better than 42 feet in this event.

By L. R. MURDOCH.

George Stallings will resume his winning streak today, if he can do two things—make his Pilgrim play Stallings baseball again and control the winds.

Two gusts of wind beat them yesterday. Other things built up a foundation for the gusts of wind to operate upon. But the two gusts were the decisive factors, considering all other things as being equal as between the two baseball teams.

Gust No. 1 occurred in the fourth inning, when the score was a no-run tie. Mowrey had popped to Myers. Konetchy had taken the only base on balls given by Perdue in the game. Sheckard had singled through Myers, sending Konetchy to third. Just as Perdue pitched the ball to Oakes, the next batter, one of a series of tiny squalls that had been breaking all afternoon swirled over the diamond. It raised a dust cloud over the infield. Oakes connected with Perdue's offering and shot the ball securely at Sweeney. As Konetchy dashed towards the plate, Sweeney was enveloped in a whirlpool of dust. He got the ball after a fashion and managed to throw out Oakes. But Konetchy scored.

Now, If It Hadn't Happened.

IF—

The air had remained calm, Sweeney would doubtless have cut down Konetchy at the plate, as Koney started with the rap, it was a fast hit and Sweeney is a good, reliable pegger to the home platter.

In the other half of that inning the Pilgrims amassed three runs and had a comfortable lead of two runs when the fifth opened. Then Wingo singled. Griner sacrificed. Huggins singled and Magee tripled, tying the score. As Perdue wound up for Mowrey, another gust swept over the diamond, sending a cloud of dust swirling up the pitcher's path. Perdue, half blinded, let go of the ball and Mowrey, swishing in the sand storm, collided with it and drove it down the path while Perdue was rubbing his eyes. So it was a single, scoring Magee with another run.

IF—

That gust had not blown at just that moment—nobody knows what Mowrey or Magee would have done. All that can be convincingly said is that the squall figured in another run. And

IF—

You take those two runs away from the Cardinals, you give the Pilgrims the game, 3 to 2. NOW you know what we mean by the BREAKS in baseball.

Water the Diamond, George!

And in a practical way we suggest to Mr. Stallings that he water or oil the skinned parts of his baseball yard here-after unless he is convinced that in the long run he will get the best of the DUST BREAKS.

Having told how an unmerciful Providence contributed to the destruction of the Pilgrims' winning streak, it is not amiss to say a few words about the baseball end of it. The Pilgrims were not favored by the "breaks" yesterday, and moreover, the Cardinals outplayed them a bit in the finer points of baseball.

CHAMPIONS OUT TO WIN FINAL FROM DETROIT

DETROIT, May 14.—The Red Sox were out to win the final game of their series with the Detroit Tigers today. The series now stands two to one in favor of the Boston team. The world's champions will probably rely upon Hugh Bedient to take today's game.

Bedient was scheduled to pitch yesterday, but Honie Wagner sent "Buck" O'Brien into the box at the last minute and the spitball star won his game by the score of 6 to 1.

After two and one-third hectic innings, in which the Red Sox did everything to George Mullin that is allowed in baseball, the third Detroit-Boston game yesterday settled down to a duel between Ty Cobb and the Red Sox battery and Infield.

Inasmuch as Cobb got three hits in four times at bat, stole a base and took two others by forcing Speaker and Engle into errors it looks as if Tyrus had by far the better of it.

It was an open and avowed contest of wits that Cobb engaged in. He bluffed to bunt to Gardner in the second inning. He motioned to him that he intended to. But Gardner played back and Cobb laid one down which he beat. Then he worried O'Brien into throwing the ball to Engle to get him off first.

Engle was a little careless in the return and when O'Brien dropped the ball Ty scooted to second. He danced off second threatening to steal third. Finally he was off. Carrigan's throw was a little low and Gardner went to his knees for the ball. Cobb sliding around back of him.

But it all went for nothing when Ty tried to steal home, Carrigan blocking him completely away from the plate and touching him after Ty had slid around the pan.

Ty laid down another bunt the next time up, but Gardner nursed it along until it rolled foul and then gave Cobb the laugh. Ty cracked a single through the box. Speaker handled the ball carelessly, never dreaming that Cobb would take second, but Ty did, actually sprinting Speaker into an error.

Ty struck out once on a low ball that he tried to cricket. A clean hit to left was his last contribution.

ALBERTS OUTPOINTED.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Frank Loughrey of Philadelphia outpointed Kid Alberts of Elizabeth, N. J., in their ten-round affair.

Right Off the Bat

By RILEY.

SIXTH INNING—Sweeney on third: Titus at first. One man out. One needed to tie. Double steal ordered. Wingo bluffs to throw to second, throws to third. Sweeney caught. Run clipped off the bases. Ninth inning—Sweeney on first; Titus at bat. None out. Nine run needed. Sacrifice ordered. Griner pitches out. Wingo hurls to Konetchy. Sweeney caught again. Another run nipped off the bases.

Query by Sweeney—Who put the wing in Wingo?

* * *

MARANVILLE must have been reading the papers lately. The baseball writers made a hero of him. Whereupon, Maranville stood and twiddled his bat while he was twice called out on strikes. This is a warning to Maranville that the heroes of today are—well—they've got to work tomorrow, too.

* * *

BY the way, since he has broken into the head lines, three New England League baseball experts are in a row over who got the "run" in Maranville.

* * *

LADY FAN—Mann was replaced by Seymour in the ninth inning emergency, notwithstanding his "home run" of the fourth, because twice with runs on the bases he had failed to deliver, and because Stallings guessed that a left-hander might be expected to come through rather than a right-hander, against Griner's right-handed pitching. Stallings was moved by the fact that his two left-handed batters had made four hits against five by his right-handers. Moreover, although urged by local pride, the scorers simply could not give Mann a home run for the one-base clout Magee big pass him and roll to the fence.

* * *

SECOND LADY FAN—Jay Kirke was sent up to bat for Bardien in the ninth for the same reason. We all know that right-handed Bardien has successfully pinch-hit in three ball games against left-handed pitchers, and that Kirke has twice struck out on similar occasions against right-banders, but the theory still obtains that Kirke, who is a left-handed swatter by nature, ought to deliver against south-paw twirlers. No, we absolutely refuse to reprint the poem "Casey at the Bat" in this connection.

* * *

WE are moved to remark, however, that with men on first and second, Kirke strode to the plate very majestically, looked very grand, gripped his bat very tightly, swung very mightily and that after fouling off one, he struck at a ball that grazed his shoestrings, at another that wheeled past the bleachers, and, if he had offered at neither, he would have walked and filled the bases, giving somebody else a chance to do the here stunt in place of himself and of "Hub" Perdue, who couldn't hit an elephant at ten paces with a three-inch gun.

* * *

ALTHOUGH the Red Sox—with O'Brien in form—breezed past Detroit, the "Breaks" are still against them. Because St. Louis won, too, and the Sox are still in sixth place, no higher than the Pilgrims. Whenever the "champs" win, the Browns do, too—the humble St. Louisians reserving their defeats for days when the world's champions die. Which condition is the only salvation of St. Louis at the top of the second division.

* * *

ON the other hand, the "break" favored the Pilgrims, because Pittsburgh fell.

* * *

AFTER a long, patient wait for the police squad on duty in the third base bleachers at South End Park to notice the remarks published in this column about the bookmaking that flourishes therein, the management has barred the bookmakers. From 300 to 400 hungry and shivering bettors continue to huddle in their accustomed corner, waiting for the bookmakers to come and take the rest of their money.

* * *

FOR years the bookies have conducted a public gambling show with the bettors in this section of South End Park, and the first base bleachers at Fenway Park. Maybe they'll quit now. Maybe John D. Rockefeller will create a fund of $1,000,000.00 for the perpetual endowment of this column and its writer. Maybe the Red Sox will win the world's championship again. Maybe. You never can tell. Strange things sometimes happen.

Matty Hasn't Given Pass in 47 Innings

Walter Johnson, the star pitcher of the Senators, may be hanging up a new record for pitchless innings, but Christy Mathewson the Giants' star, in breaking all previous marks for flightiness in the matter of issuing bases on balls, Johnson has gone forty-five and two-thirds innings without being scored on, but Matty has gone forty-seven innings without giving a pass. The only two free tickets he has issued this season happened in the game against Boston on April 17. He has created the following record since:

Date and opponent.	Innings.	Hits by.	Runs by.
April 26—Philadelphia	9	0	5
April 30—Boston	9	0	0
May 5—Philadelphia	8 2/3	0	0
May 11—Cincinnati	7 1/3	0	2
May 15—Chicago	9	0	2
Totals	47	0	27

Matty has won five games and lost one so far this season. He was beaten by the Phillies on May 5, the score being 3 to 2, two runs being on when the winning run was scored.

Boston to Have Yacht in Trials for Cup Races

BRISTOL, R. I., May 14.—Old boat builders today began preparations for Winter's work in a number of seventy five foot racing sloops, feeling certain that the London challenge for a race in 1914 will be accepted.

It is expected that at least a half dozen boats will compete in the trial races for a suitable challenger.

Boston yachtsmen have announced that they will contribute to a fund for the building of a boat to compete in the trial races.

North Abington Y. M. C. A. Organizes Strong Ball Team

After making a careful scrutiny of several teams, Bill Brown has gathered a squad of players and is ready to put on the field the strongest team that has ever been organized in Plymouth County to represent the North Abington Y. M. C. A.

In practice games against the strongest teams available the men have shown great form, and with two star twirlers in Bates and Brett, the team is ready to arrange games with the strongest amateur and semi-professional teams in the State, at or away from home. Day, the former Springfield Training School star, will do the catching. Connelman, who played in the New York State League last season, and Robertson, are out for first base. "Reggie" Norton, the former Old Colony League star, will play second. Henry Pease, formerly with the Hanover semi-professionals, at short, and Hanson will play third.

Williams, Crossman, Ross and Hixon will play in the outfield. All of these men are stars in their positions and have had much experience on the diamond. Manager William A. Brown, Y. M. C. A., North Abington.

BRADLEY REPORTS BACK TO RED SOX

Hugh Bradley, who was sold by the Red Sox to Jersey City at the close of last season, reported back to Boston today and will be here until word is received from the National Commission. Bradley was sold to the Jersey City team, but that team has evaded payment, according to the Red Sox management, and President McAleer told Bradley to report back to Boston. If the National Commission finds the Sheeters must pay for the player he will be sent back there on receipt of the money. Or the Red Sox may hold him or sell him to another club at their will.

PRESIDENT YUAN SHI KAI CABLES APPRECIATION OF REPUBLIC OF CHINA

Honorable William Randolph Hearst, New York:

I thank you heartily for your cablegram congratulating China on its recognition as a republic by the United States. Our citizens, as well as myself, feel highly gratified at the lead taken by President Wilson and the people of the United States in formal recognition of the republic of China.

Our National Assembly having perfected its organization, is now in session. The provisional government, while approaching the expiration of its legal term, has not slackened its efforts to promote peace and order in the country and to do all that lies in its power to strengthen the foundation of the new commonwealth. We appreciate highly the cordial and sympathetic expressions contained in your cablegram.

(Signed) YUAN SHI KAI, President of the Republic of China.

THE CHINESE MINISTER TRANSMITS THE MESSAGE:

Legation of China, Washington, May 12, 1913.

Honorable William Randolph Hearst, New York.

I am in receipt of a cablegram containing a message addressed to you by President Yuan Shi Kai. I take pleasure in transmitting herewith the message and its translation.

Very truly yours,

CHANG YIN TANG.

FOSS STARTS AN INQUIRY ON CANTON CASE

Governor Foss has taken a hand in the controversy between the State Board of Health and the Canton Health Board over the infantile epidemic, which has caused the death of sixteen persons. The Governor is directing an investigation to determine whether the State Board of the Canton board was negligent.

John C. Sherman, private secretary to the Governor, has been in communication with Dr. Luce of the Canton Board and with Secretary Richardson of the State Board.

Dr. Mark W. Richardson of the State Board declares the local board did not act quickly enough in carrying out an order of the State Board to shut off the supply of milk by the French dairy in Canton, which is believed to be responsible for the epidemic. The local board says the State Board was negligent in dealing with the situation and slow to assist the local board in its work.

White Slave Board Named by Governor

Governor Foss today appointed the commission to investigate the white slave traffic in Massachusetts, under the Gillin resolve passed by the Legislature. The commission is:

Dr. Walter E. Fernald, head of the Massachusetts School for Feeble Minded, chairman.

Roscoe Pound, Belmont.

Charles W. Birtwell, Boston.

Lucia L. Zaquith, Worcester.

Edwin Mulready, Rockland.

The nominations were sent to the Executive Council today, action being deferred one week, under the rules.

The Governor also reappointed Henry E. Woods of Boston as Commissioner of Public Records; Robert L. O'Brien of Brookline as trustee of the State Library, and Frederick W. Lawson of Fall River as a member of the Fall River Police Board. These nominations were confirmed by the council, under suspension of the rules.

STEEL PROFITS EXCESSIVE, U. S. REPORT SAYS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Acting Commissioner of Corporations Francis Walker, in his report today of his investigations of the cost of steel production in the United States, declares that the profits of the Steel Trust are excessive while its business risk is comparatively small.

Commissioner Walker states that the rate of profit on the Steel Corporation's investment is 16½ per cent. on rails and 10½ per cent. on steel plates. He bases his figures on costs and selling prices in 1910. The commissioner says his comparison of the net costs of Bessemer pig iron in the large companies and the small companies shows a decided advantage in favor of the former, due in part, he says, to the "more complete integration" of the larger companies.

On the profit on a ton of steel rails was $10.78, the commissioner points out, the net cost being $16.67. The commissioner says:

"The facts presented in this report are obviously of great value with regard to various large questions of public policy and national welfare, such as recent boldness of prices, industrial efficiency, ownership and control of natural resources, relations of common carriers to manufacturing enterprises and tariff legislation."

Commissioner Walker charges that the Steel Trust has subsidiary companies engaged in the transportation of raw materials. He also names two railroads which carry ore for the trust—the Duluth, Missabe and Northern railway and the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad—which he says are permitted to earn large profits. The commissioner's comment follows:

"Such high rates of profit from a business which is monopolistic in character and also affected by public use of common carriers are obviously excessive."

EXPECT MAYOR'S RETURN TOMORROW

CHINA GIVES THANKS THRO' W. R. HEARST

NEW YORK, May 14.—Yuan Shi Kai, president of China, presents through the American people the thanks of the new republic of the East to the American people for recognition which the United States was the first to accord to the youngest member of the sisterhood of free popular governments.

It is a message of peace and good-will which completes a significant chapter in the history of the Twentieth Century.

By his message to Mr. Hearst, President Yuan Shi Kai brings to a felicitous conclusion the series of international interchange which began when, the people of China having made their successful stroke for freedom, Foreign Minister Wu Ting Fang appealed to Mr. Hearst to transmit to the civilized world the new republic's plea for recognition and came to a happy end when, following the passage by Congress of a resolution inspired by the American favoring the Chinese republic, recognition was accorded by the Washington government President Yuan Shi Kai now completes the chain of his cabled thanks to Mr. Hearst.

Appeals for Hearst Aid.

The American is proud to have been the medium of fame bringing about in advance of all other nations of the world the recognition by the United States of the Oriental republic.

It was on November 15, 1911, following the first dash of the news that the Chinese people had thrown off the yoke of the long-entrenched Manchu dynasty and established a government of their own, that Wu Ting Fang, long Chinese Minister at Washington, and fully informed as to the widespread hatred of the Tartar new rule, cabled Mr. Hearst from Shanghai, invoking his aid in securing recognition for the new government.

All the energies of the Hearst newspapers were brought into play to bring about the recognition which the new republic justly deserved and on May 3, 1913, the Chinese republic was formally recognized by the government of the United States. The task which Mr. Wu had entrusted to the American had been accomplished.

There remained only the exchange of final congratulations and for the recognition of the Chinese republic Mr. Hearst dispatched this message to President Yuan Shi Kai.

W. R. Hearst's Message.

Accept hearty congratulations of New York American, Boston AMERICAN, Chicago Examiner, San Francisco and Los Angeles Examiners and my five other newspapers on formal recognition of birth of new republic of China. Am gratified, as first resolution recognizing new republic was introduced in American Congress through efforts of my newspapers.

Would be delighted to present to American people through my newspapers message from you predicting great progress now being made by new republic and bright prospects for its future.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

To which message President Yuan Shi Kai responded, the cable dispatch coming through the Chinese Legation at Washington and being transmitted in the original Chinese, thence to Mr. Hearst by His Excellency, the Chinese Minister.

TRAIN SMASHES THROUGH FENCE AT NORTH STATION

An empty passenger train backed through the bumper of track No. 11 in the North Station, crossed a twenty-foot platform and carried away a section of the iron fence which supports the indicators, early today, but no one was injured. The train was being backed into the track from which it was scheduled to leave later for Wilmington. It is supposed the signals became crossed and the engineer was unable to stop the train until after the fence had been smashed. Only a few workmen were in the station at the time and a wrecking crew cleared the damage repaired. Trains carded to leave on that track were dispatched from tracks Nos. 16 and 18.

Irresistible Alike to the "Fresh"—the Vagrant—the Blase Fancy!

BY NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1913, by International News Service

Nell—Brinkley—Says—

JUST a bit of failing it is—our most beloved weakness—to stop and smile at a baby's face.

Crabbed, life-worn old man—his shuffling feet waver and halt and a smile crinkles his wintery face. Heavy, shiny old lady, her mind lost these many years in dulled things of memory and the aches of present "rheumatics"—she glows down upon the bit of pink life with a ghost of her old girlish beauty on her broad face.

The handsome wretch of a young chap with nothing on his mind but a smart, soft hat and the fact that it is good to live in the Spring-time—he slows his lively feet long enough to flash down an admiring grin, mutter "Keen little beggar," and go off with an odd stirring in his mind of a latent dream.

The chic little peach of a girl with a dream of a chapeau atop her curls, a hint of rouge on her cheekbones, taking her abbreviated little steps in tight swathed silks, stops dead, digs her smooth white fists in her and stays a very long time—her mouth curved in sudden sweetness—a brooding understanding in her eyes, lost in what is probably her first unconscious pose that day.

A slim aristocrat, airing her toy-dogs, lingers with pretty dragging feet, her face a mixture of half-delight, half-envy—and all sadness. I imagined I caught the glimmer of tears in her fine eyes—but then I have a lively imagination—maybe it was the sun—or I WANTED to see them there. And up at the top of the curving park walk—the big blue "cop" beams down at the little mother and the slow-moving white baby carriage.

He cannot see that far what's in it, but he knows it's the keenest thing ever and his heart pulls that way all by itself! Just a beloved weakness of ours to show our naked souls in our eyes—to slow our busy feet—to smile—when we see a baby's face.

By the Sweat of His Brow

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"WILL you be good enough," asks M. E., "to tell me if it is proper for a girl to kiss a young man who tells her he loves her but cannot marry for some time to come owing to the fact that he is not in a position to support her at the present time, and may never be able to do so?"

If kisses be classed as luxuries or necessities depends solely on the years of the one making the classification. Youth regards them as necessities, and Age knows they are but idle luxuries, meaningless though not unpleasant, and an altogether unsatisfactory method of expressing an affection that sometimes lasts little longer than the kiss itself.

But, be they luxuries or necessities, they should be classed among the many things which a man should be compelled to earn by the sweat of his brow. Unless he can earn a living, and by the sweat of his brow provide bread, he is not entitled to kisses. Unless he can go forth and with muscle and brains produce the price of a meal for his bride he hasn't earned the right to be kissed by anybody in the world but his mother.

It Is an Insult

The kiss that is given to a girl with the declaration, "I love you, but I can not afford to marry you; I am not in position to support you now, and may never be able to do so," is an insult.

It is as if he said to her: "It gratifies me to kiss you, and for that reason I seek the privilege. I can do nothing for you and my monopoly of your affection will serve no other purpose than to place you in an embarrassing position, and to keep other lovers away whose intentions are more honorable. But it pleases me to kiss you, and when I grow tired of kissing you I can take my avowals of love to some other girl. They carry no promise with them, no obligation, no duty, and so long as there are girls in the world who will kiss me, I can enjoy myself without paying the price."

He Is a Loafer

I take it that this young man is a loafer, and who is there who thinks that the man who loafs when there is so much work to do, is entitled to any girl's kisses? A self-respecting man will seek work, and a self-respecting girl will refuse to bestow any mark of affection on a man who is a professional bobo in the Kingdom of Love.

To care for such a man is a weakness that carries tragedy in its wake. It is the same kind of weakness that marks the woman who supports her husband, finding recompense for her toil in the fact that he never abuses her or speaks cross to her, while other women's husbands who work hard and earn a good living are sometimes cruised and angry.

The girl who permits such a man to kiss her, shows a heart that is soft and a brain that is weak. She has two choices of degradation. Either she kisses the man to no other purpose than a waste of time and an inventory memory, or she marries him and takes upon her shoulders the burden of his support.

There is no other alternative.

An Empress' Jewels.

AN inventory of jewels that belonged to the Empress Eugenie has just been discovered at Montijosa in the Pyrenees-Orientales Department by a young soldier who was taking a stroll near the fortifications.

He noticed the neck of a bottle sticking out of the ground, and unearthed it. In it was a document bearing the seals of the Second Empire, dated September 1, 1870, and having the inscription: "Inventory of jewels and bank notes entrusted today to M. Manuel Feres to be taken to Madrid and handed over to the Comtesse de Montijo—probably a relation of the Empress." Several items followed:

A pearl necklace presented by the Emperor of Russia, valued at $100,000.

Two pearl bracelets from the Queen of England, valued at $100,000.

A ruby and diamond parure from the Shah of Persia, valued at $100,000.

A pearl and diamond necklace from the Grand Duc Constantine of Russia, valued at $100,000.

Four parures, six bracelets and three necklaces, valued at $200,000.

Bank of France notes to the value of $400,000.

The document was headed Paris, Palace of the Tuileries, and signed by the Grand Chamberlain of the Palace.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

PA took Ma & me to a moving picter show last nite. Pa sed that it was going to be a grate show because Mister Art Hertzog sent all the way to New York for the picters, & he wanted us to go especially to see a grate drama called Queenie, the Quarry Man's Daughter. So we went to the show & all the time they was showing the first pictures Pa kep telling Ma & me to wait until they had the stone quarry picter. I saw the rehearsal of it this forenoon, Pa sed, & it is a pretty story. It seems that the father of the gurl Queenie is a honest man & he does not like the gurl's sweetheart, a Italian with a lot of money, that is going to marry her or foreclose the mortgage on the stone quarry. It is a grate plot, Pa sed, & the reason I am so much interested in it is because I used to be a stone quarry man myself.

You did? sed Ma.

Yes, yes, sed Pa. I used to be known as one of the most powerful cutters & lifters of stone that was ever in this workshun of the country. I was often thought, Pa sed, wen looking back over those old days, that I must have been living in a long ago age. I have often thought wen I was lifting blocks of stone about twenty feet long that I was a quarry slave in the days wen Mister Potolmy helped me to bild the pyramids, Pa sed.

Jest then the picter beegun about Queenie, the stone quarry man's daughter. It showed a big stone quarry seen ware all the men was hurrying around and lifting rocks into wagons. Then it showed the Italian man wich was going to marry Queenie, & there was a scen ware she spurned him. Then he told her, in the picter, that he had a mortgage on her father's quarry & how he was going to sell it if she dident become his bride.

The heero of the play was a yung Irishman that was handling a pick. Being a Irishman, he had a lot of time to fearn to the talk between Queenie & the villun, beekaus he would swing the pick onst & then he wud lite his pipe & fiesen for a minnit or so, & then he wud swing his pick onst mour & lite his pipe long enuff to git the rest of the terrifick story. Then the Irishman went ouver & slammed Queenie's lover in the mouth or smoged the eyes or sumwurre, & then cum the revenge. Wen Queenie had went to git her father's lunch the villun stole sum dinnamite & calm beehind ware the yung Irishman was picking with his pick & put the dinnamite under the stone & blew the whole lot of it ouver onto the Irishman.

Then he run away & sed with Derick McGillicuddy out of the way the quarry shall be mine. But then Queenie calm back & started in trying to life the rocks away, but her skreems attracked her pa, & he calm on the scen & began to throw the rocks rite & left. Ha, sed Pa, that reeminds me of the way I used to throw those grate masses of granite into the wagons of the teamsters. I was so strong in those days, sed Pa, that I had to be careful putting on my clothes for fear I wud tare them. But Ma & me found out today that Pa was lying, beekaus Ma's cuzzen is a quarry man, Jimmie Trudden, & wen Ma asked him if Pa ever lifted a rock Mister Trudden, wich had known Pa since childhood, sed Yes, he used to lift rocks wen they wasent too heavy to throw at chipmunks.

The Home Beauty Parlor

By Doris Dean

L. S.: Every woman wants to be slender nowadays, so I don't blame you, and since this reliable and inexpensive home-remedy, parmolin, was discovered, we may all make our figures to suit the latest mode. Parmolin allows you to reduce flesh without danger or discomfort, and it leaves the skin firm and unwrinkled. Simply get four ounces of parmolin from your druggist, dissolve it in 1½ pints hot water and strain. Take a tablespoonful three times a day. Avoid cereals. They are too starchy. This remedy is cheap and harmless and rapid in effect.

Ada S.: Your arm are probably overtired and overworked. Beat the yerves, brighten the color and clear the lids of inflamnation by this method. Dissolve one ounce of cyrstos in a pint of soft water. Drop 2 drops daily in each eye. This is a simple, economical tonic. If troubled with dark rings or fullness under your eyes try saturating a cloth in the solution and laying it over the eyes while lying down. It rests the nerves and starts circulation. Both are necessary to beauty of eye.

Helen O.: You are one of many who ask me about egg shampoos, and I gladly quote an eminent London beauty specialist: "The shine egg cannot dissolve the scalp impurities, but adds to them so that the pores are quickly clogged; the substance sticks, decomposes, causing the hair to become a dead, dull color". I endorse every word. Avoid eggs (and soap, too) on your hair. Try the fine preparation made by stirring a teaspoonful cantbros in a cup of hot water. It will bring out the beauty-possibilities in your hair, will cure and prevent dandruff, and promote growth and fluffiness. It removes excess oil.

Lilla: O, I don't believe your skin is seriously affected, and I am sure it can be easily healed. There is a preparation I am always glad to recommend because it is so reliable and cheap and easily made. And it is a splendid substitute for ordinary face powder which is at the bottom of many complexion troubles. Get 4 ounces of spermas, dissolve it in half a pint of hot water, add two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, stir thoroughly and let the mixture cool. There you have a real "beautifier"—all your complexion needs. The shine salloweness is instantly relieved, and the effect is lasting.

Hattie L.: You are evidently not old enough to worry about wrinkles or losing your good looks, but you are wise in taking every precaution against the loss of your complexion and the coming of premature wrinkles. Keep the skin firm and the complexion clear with a nightly massage, using this simple, inexpensive preparation: Mix together an ounce of almonoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and ½ pint cold water. Stir and let stand a few hours. This will give a healthy resistance to the tissues and prevent the large pores which come from a weakly condition of skin. Try this faithfully for a while and note how it encourages the natural contour without undue flesh. Many have found in it a return to skin health.

Beatrice B.: From what you write of your frequent "blues" and nervous spells I am quite sure you are run down and need a good tonic, something to sharpen your appetite and regulate your whole system. Here is an excellent blood purifier that tones up the body generally. Dissolve half a cup of sugar and one cross tardeas in half a pint alcohol (not whisky). Add enough hot water to make a full quart of the mixture. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. You will feel benefited right away, the whole world will look brighter and it will improve your looks, too.

D. B. V.: I am not surprised that your hair is falling out when you confess that you "have tried everything on the market." Scientists agree on the wonderful merits of quinine preparations, but they must always be made fresh. This you can do, with little cost, at home. Simply dissolve one ounce of quinoin (get it at any drug store) in ½ pint alcohol, and mix with ½ pint water and you have a delightful home-made tonic that will keep the scalp healthy and give you back your growing glory. Use twice a week. I know nothing better to prevent baldness.

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

There was not much change in stock markets this morning. They were dull and where there was activity there was a tendency towards lower prices. The price movement locally was very narrow. Trade was true of New York, too.

In that market Canadian Pacific was busily weak. Chesapeake & Ohio was strongest because of dividend expectations. At the end of the first hour Steel, Amalgamated, Reading and Union Pacific were all a little lower.

The Utah Copper Co. reports for the quarter ending with March that total net profits decreased $262,000, the total production was 23,884,467 pounds.

Early Prices Lower in New York.

There was a lack of demand for stocks when the New York market opened. It was something in the nature of a reaction after the upturn in late trading yesterday, but there was no apparent change in speculative conditions. There were price recessions at the opening and Canadian Pacific was conspicuous, declining 1¾. After a half hour a better tone developed and a number of high quality active stocks made recoveries either in whole or in part.

Among early losses were Amalgamated 5/8, American Can ¼, American Smelting ⅝, Chesapeake & Ohio ¼, New Haven ⅛, New York Central ⅛, Reading ⅝, Union Pacific ⅛ and Steel common ⅛.

Pennsylvania began on a higher, but lost its advance and suffered a net loss of ¼ within fifteen minutes. Erie made a fractional advance.

The Curb was steady.

Americans in London showed the support of buying orders cabled from New York.

President Yielding to Pressure?

According to the latest reports from Washington, President Wilson is beginning to yield to pressure from the great number of people who want the Underwood tariff bill modified. A dispatch from the capital reads:

"Today he began to permit those in authority about him to say that he will not oppose any amendments to the tariff bill that are in the interests of fair play and intended to equalize inequalities that may have crept into the House measure.

"This is the first public intimation that the President is losing the effect of letters and telegrams pouring in upon him urging him to stand on his declaration in his first annual message to Congress. In this message, delivered by word of mouth to make it the more impressive, Mr. Wilson said that in the revision of the tariff along Democratic lines no industry must be destroyed.

"Innumerable telegrams and letters have continued like that the House bill marks confirmation for many of the most flourishing industries of the country. Indeed the President as he left Washington ago, and thinking to receive arguments from the Democrats in favor of the bill as it now stands. Mr. Wilson has been compelled to admit changes may be necessary.

"Today he gave it out that he has talked with him that whatever the Finance Committee of the senate did must be in the most broad light of day. News from the States has put the President in a political fix. Some say he was wobbling.

"In a few more days it is felt here he will be stampeded and treading with the Senate to save the party from annihilation in the next campaign."

But this country can stand a good deal of foreign competition, according to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. It reports that a comparison of seventeen industries in Great Britain and the United States shows that the manufacturing establishments in this country have higher efficiency, and that "less and a half times as many wage earners and one-sixth more power are needed in the United Kingdom than in the United States to produce a net output of equal value.

Average wages in the seventeen industries were only half as high in Great Britain as here, although the wage cost to obtain an equal value of net output was 19 per cent. higher.

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market opened easy in tone, with spot off 1s. 3d. and futures 2s. 6d.

Net income of Amalgamated for the eight months ending with December totaled $6,595,610. The Anaconda Copper Mining Company's report shows gross sales of copper, silver and gold aggregating $51,722,022 for the year, with a profit of $13,856,335. President John D. Ryan in his Amalgamated report states that from January 1 to May 10 the Amalgamated's selling agency had sold over six months' production of its mines.

Up to the end of May 12 copper exports totalled 10,475 tons for the month. For March the amount was 42,428 and for April 33,274. It is said on behalf of producers that this unusually large movement is genuine and the result of foreign buying, and that the metal is not being sent abroad to be hidden.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

It is a certainty that this year will see more transcontinentalists than ever before. A. A. A. members who are planning tour across the continent this Summer will be interested to know that these vital portions of the "Midland Trail" in Western Colorado and Eastern Utah are being rapidly improved in the crossing to the Pacific coast through the heart of the Rockies. The total sums now available for road work in Colorado alone exceed, at this time, $2,500,000.

A devotee of the motor racing sport has been busy making deductions from the 500-mile race of last year on the Indianapolis Speedway in order to better figure on what the cars must do this year in order to break the record.

It was thought for a while last year, according to this fan's figures, that the Mercedes was going to win. But it went out of the race in the 107th lap. Then National won with an actual running average of 81.72 miles per hour.

The Mercedes had three tire changes; two right front and one right rear. The National had seven tire changes but they did not wait until they wore out, but avoided trouble. Of these there were two right rear, two right front and one left rear. The other tire went through the race.

The Mercedes stopped one second to adjust the carburetor and one minute for gasoline. Ralph Mulford stopped in the 181st lap to get a new spark plug. The National lost fourteen minutes in all at the pit, while the Mercedes lost only four. The National stops were made in the 78th, 107th, 142d, 175th and 181st laps. When the Mercedes went out of the race the National made its fastest time, averaging 87½ miles per hour for the 10 laps, while the fastest lap average of the entire race.

Now, R. B. Eads of the Premier Motor Car Company will as usual visit Indianapolis at the time of the big race. He will incidentally record several days of the factory, which produces the well-known line of Premier cars.

General Manager J. N. Gunn of the Studebaker Corporation is spending a few days in Boston visiting Local Manager Myers and looking over the general field. Mr. Gunn has no fear for the future of the automobile industry, and feels that his company is well represented in this section.

WILKIE IN BOSTON, MAY SOON RESIGN

John E. Wilkie, special agent and formerly for fourteen years chief of the United States secret service, when seen at the Hotel Essex, where he is staying during the local customs investigation, refused to discuss the report of his resignation. Washington dispatches today reaffirm the report that he will resign to go into business in Chicago.

To you personally—
Read it!
Think it over!

Quoted from the New York Times:

To decide a bet, a peddler stood all day on the Strand in London about a month ago offering gold sovereigns ($4.86) for sixpence (12c.)

He was only able to sell four.

Of the thousands who passed, ninety-nine per cent. had sixpence but they were skeptical and afraid the sovereigns were counterfeits.

Only four men were clever enough to know a real sovereign from a counterfeit, and to take advantage of the opportunity, and buy.

Ask yourself if you know a real opportunity from a counterfeit.

Are you clever enough—
have you enough self-confidence
—to take advantage of the real opportunity?

That Is What Woodrow Wilson Is Doing with Japan. He May Make It Necessary to Treat Japan Unkindly

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company.

As an educator Professor Wilson knows that it is a mistake to give children an exaggerated idea of their own importance.

The spoiled child, taught that he should have everything he wants, and that older and bigger beings should bow to his will, is a great nuisance.

Japan is the child among civilized nations so called. And Professor Wilson, representing Uncle Sam, an old and big gentleman, is doing everything possible to make a spoiled child of Japan.

This is unpleasant and troublesome. In our brutal way of settling affairs, the spoiled child usually ends with a good spanking. And if Professor Wilson cannot be a wiser educator among the nations, Japan may have to end with the spoiled child's spanking.

Nothing could be more ridiculous than to have the Japanese people calling upon us to arbitrate OUR RIGHT TO MANAGE AFFAIRS INSIDE OF THE UNITED STATES.

One of the States, entirely within its rights and protecting its interests, has declared that it doesn't care to have Japanese colonies or Japanese land owners. And a very simple, plain bill has been passed saying that the Japanese must not own land in California.

If Professor Wilson had found it possible to let California manage her own affairs, and had refrained from playing the part of the professor on that occasion, nothing would have been heard about the law passed by California.

But Professor Wilson began telling the little Japanese boy that he was badly hurt and badly treated, and naturally enough along comes Japan now, demanding the right to investigate what we do, INSIDE OF THE UNITED STATES, WITH UNITED STATES TERRITORY, and telling us that we must arbitrate and find out whether or not we have a right to manage our own affairs.

The Japanese have laws that will not permit an American to own Japanese soil except under definite regulations.

An American can RENT the surface of the soil for a certain length of time. But he can't own it. And if he happens to find a mine, or something else of value underneath the soil, that doesn't belong to him, it belongs to the Japanese Government.

Laws of this kind Japan has passed as she has seen fit. And the United States has never said to her, "Won't you please arbitrate THE RIGHT OF JAPAN TO REGULATE JAPANESE MATTERS!"

We recognize the fact that Japan, although smaller, and in our opinion a good deal weaker than we are, has a right to manage matters inside of Japanese territory to suit herself.

And the average citizen of the United States would frankly tell Mr. Wilson that he ought to tell Japan to PERMIT THE UNITED STATES TO REGULATE AFFAIRS WITHIN ITS OWN BORDERS ACCORDING TO ITS OWN FASHION.

For centuries the Japanese wouldn't allow any white man of European strain to enter Japanese territory at all. Only very recently the Japanese have changed this law. We didn't threaten to shoot them, we only talked to them in a friendly way. And let them do exactly as they pleased.

Now, they have opened their ports, after having kept them closed for centuries. And they say, "Little Japanese boy wants to go and sit in Uncle Sam's lap." And if Uncle Sam doesn't care to have the little Japanese boy sitting in his lap, Japan is very indignant and Mr. Wilson encourages the indignation.

Nothing very much will come of it, for, of course, the citizens of California will exercise their right, regardless of Mr. Wilson's interference.

And somebody will tell Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan that it is usual for those who represent a nation TO TAKE THE SIDE OF THEIR OWN NATION, AND ASSUME THAT IT HAS A RIGHT TO REGULATE ITS OWN INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

And the thing will blow over after the little spoiled Japanese boy has had his say.

However, the citizens must be good natured, and just, and remember that the spoiled boy of the Far East, acting rather impertinently, is not entirely to blame.

Where you see a spoiled child acting badly, you blame the older person, who has failed to set the good example.

And when you see Japan acting impertinently, you blame Professor Wilson, who has done what he could in his short term to encourage Japanese arrogance and interference with very simple American rights.

Chicago Drops Into Poetry

It Decides to Clean House and Incidentally Offers an Argument for Woman Suffrage

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company

The very sensible inhabitants of Chicago—through a bulletin of their Department of Health—announced a grand city housecleaning—more power to the Department of Health and the housecleaners.

On the back of the pamphlet there is a little picture of a lady flying on a modern broomstick. And underneath this interesting and pleasing poem:

"Chicago, Chicago, Chicago," quoth I,
"Whither, oh whither, oh whither, so spry?"
"To clean up the alleys
And chase out the fly!
Then I'll have fewer
Small coffins to buy."
CLEAN UP WEEK—MAY 5-10, 1913.

There is more hope for civilization in that poem than in longer and more pretentious poems by greater poets.

When men decide that prisons, wars and courts of law are not the WHOLE of government, and that HOUSE CLEANING IS A GOVERNMENT FUNCTION, human beings are on the way to civilization and common sense.

You don't have to look back many years—in the pages of history—to find the time when every street was a public sewer—all the filth running down the gutters.

You don't have to go back many hundred centuries to the day when the second biggest city in France did not have in it ONE man or a woman over fifty years of age—in the forties everybody got typhoid or something of the kind and died.

You don't have to go very far back to find a time when people used to think that it was "the will of God" when children died like flies.

It is a good sign when people decide to obey "the will of God" by keeping clean and protecting the children.

Incidentally it is a good argument for woman suffrage when HOUSE CLEANING IS RECOGNIZED AS A PART OF GOVERNMENT.

Man, proud man, mighty well pleased with himself, declares that woman isn't fit to be a soldier, or a policeman, but man admits, at least, that woman IS fit to be a HOUSEKEEPER.

He has kept her at the house cleaning job pretty thoroughly for two hundred thousand years.

Now that house cleaning becomes a part of government, let us hope that proud man will use his common sense and realize that woman ought to have a SHARE in the government, which at least has decided to pay some attention to real life, and to dirt, and to the health of children, and to the protection of working girls—and the other things that women understand better than men.

May 8, 1913.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—We wish to thank you for your very valuable support of the Ellis Clean Milk Bill. Your editorials have been very timely and effective. As you know, impure milk does more harm than all the other impure foods together, and it is therefore of the utmost importance that our State Board of Health should be given legal authority to insist upon clean conditions in connection with our milk supply; that they should have an adequate force of inspectors and a proper appropriation for this work. Such protection cannot long be denied our citizens.

Where the lives of our children are so vitally affected it is clearly the duty of all good citizens to bend every effort to secure this legislation. Sincerely yours,
MRS. WILLIAM LOWELL PUTNAM.

Dorothy Dix's Article —ON— Henpecked Husbands—Man Should Be Head of House—He Who Dares Not Call Soul His Own Finds Marriage a Prison.

By DOROTHY DIX

RECENTLY a Chicago man applied for a divorce from his wife on the grounds that his better half was in the habit of beating him and cruelly mistreating him.

The judge before whom the case was tried turned a deaf ear to the piteous story of the sufferings of this poor, helpless husband at the hands of a strenuous wife, and refused him the protection of the law.

"Your wife cruel to you?" thundered the irate justice on the bench. "It is your own fault, sir. Take hold of her and make her behave. Yes, sir, make her behave. It is the man's business to be the head of the house."

It is easy enough to say that the man should be the head of the house, but how is he to achieve and hold the executive chair when his wife is a candidate for the same exalted place? Before marriage every man expects to manage his wife. After marriage he knows he is lucky enough if he can keep her from managing him. In all the world there is no problem so helpless and so hopeless as that of trying to make a woman behave when she doesn't behave right of her own accord, and the judge who advises a man to tackle the job is giving him a task beside which the labors of Hercules were mere child's play.

How, for instance, is a man going to make a woman behave who has a tabasco temper and a tongue that blisters as it wags?

You Cannot Reason with a Shrew Under Any Circumstances

You can't reason with a shrew. The only argument that a termagant ever listens to is a knockdown and dragout one, and unhappily the conventions of good society do not permit a gentleman to beat his wife, no matter how much he would like to, nor how she needs it.

There are thousands and thousands of men who are noble, and good, and physically brave, but who spend the entire years of their married life trembling before a virago.

I have known men, genial, kind, and who loved the society of their fellows, yet who, if kept a moment beyond the hour they were expected home, would cower like a whipped schoolboy as they put their latch key in the lock and thought of the awful wigging they were about to get.

I know a man, fond of good living, who, at his dyspeptic wife's stern admonition, "Dear," drops his fork upon his plate as if the tidbit he had been carrying to his mouth had suddenly become poison. I know men, generous and hospitable, who would no more dare to take a friend home with them to dinner than they would to commit any other crime that was punishable with being flayed alive.

How is a man going to make his wife behave when she is ruining him with her extravagance? Of course, he can legally avoid paying her bills by giving public notice that he will not be responsible for her debts, but such a course brands her with disgrace and touches his honor. Very few men have the hardihood to adopt this plan, but every year our graveyards and our asylums are being filled with men who have worked themselves into the grave, or paresis, trying to stem the tide of their wives' wasteful, wilful extravagance.

Whose Folly Is It Drags the Husband Down to Failure?

Before her husband's entreaties to be economical, such a woman sulks, to his remonstrance at her extravagance she retorts that he is stingy, while if he attempts to restrain her she avenges herself with such a shower of complaints and reproaches because she can't have things like Mrs. Bullion, or Mrs. Croesus, that he retires defeated to mint his very life into money enough to supply her demands.

Or how is the man to make the woman behave who is merely silly and childish?

But whose folly is the millstone around the neck of her husband that drags him down into the sea of failure?

Everybody will admit that the man who is married to a woman who needs managing ought to manage her, but it is one of the most pathetic truths of life that in a family conflict it is always the noblest and best that is crushed under foot. In the end it is the brute that rules.

But why should there be any one head, either male of female, to a house? Marriage is not an autocracy. It is a democracy. The wife is just as much interested in the success of the family, she has given as much to it, her happiness is just as much wound up in it as the husband's is. Why should she not have just as much voice in ruling it?

A man thinks he has the right to govern the home and rule his wife because he supplies the money that runs the establishment, but, even so, if he gave every cent he earned he would give no more than the woman who spends her days in cleaning and cooking, and sewing and her nights in anxious thoughts and watching of him and his children. Women, to their credit, be it said, seldom consciously assume this role of boss of the family, and when they do they have the grace to be ashamed of it and not to brag about it, whereas if a man can tyrannize over some poor little woman, he spends his time crowing over the achievement.

Personally, I believe that the head of the house theory has brought about more domestic misery than any other one thing.

Marriage for Henpecked Husband Is Only Prison

The man who dares not call his soul his own can find marriage nothing but a prison. The woman who has to give an account of every act and thought, and ask permission, like a child, for everything she does, must also find it a police jail where she is always expecting to be sentenced and get the full extent of the law. The ideal family relationship is where the husband and wife reign as twin monarchs, with equal authority, and with equal respect for each other's rights and privileges.

In the meantime, if the Chicago judge holds that a man should be the head of his house, an anxious world would like to know how he is to do it.
